

When Things Change

In the future things may change for your non-profit organisation. Your organisation's fundraising and other activities may grow to a point where it decides to change its legal structure or it may need to amend its documents to reflect its current activities. Or your organisation may have found that there is no longer a need for it to continue to exist or that it could better fulfil its objects if it joined forces with another non-profit organisation.

This section of the website looks at just some of the legal issues that international non-profit organisations should think about when things change (or preferably before things change!). The topics include legal issues to consider when:

- Changing your organisation's legal documents
- Changing your organisation's legal structure
- Working with other organisations